“AAA Restoration Company is proud of our involvement with the Brooke Butler Memorial Scholarship Foundation. Because stewardship is a core value at AAA Restoration Company, we use our resources and influence to improve our Atlanta and Nashville communities. Through our volunteer and sponsorship initiatives, we support the neighborhoods where our clients and customers live and work. Meaghan, Stacey and Keaton are great examples of community leadership and we are thrilled to help them excel even further,” stated Brandon Robertson, President of Business Development with AAA Restoration Company. The first Brooke Butler Memorial Scholarships were presented at a ceremony on May 23, 2012 at Union Grove High School.

“Five months ago, we started planning the Brooke Butler Memorial Scholarship Foundation 5K. We started on a whim and a prayer with no money, an abundance of ideas and tons of energy. Our goals were simple. We wanted 250-300 race registrants and to award two scholarships. We exceeded these goals with more than 500 race registrants and the presentation of three scholarships. We are humbled by the generosity and support of AAA Restoration Company and our local community that made these incredible feats possible,” commented Lori Bates, Brooke Butler Memorial Scholarship Foundation board member and Project Quality Control Manager with AAA Restoration Company. Further details regarding the Brooke Butler Memorial Scholarship Foundation and 5K Race including information on 2013 can be found on-line at www.runningforbrooke.com.

“Knowing that Brooke was such a magnificent girl, I was touched to receive a scholarship commemorating her and her life. I am so thankful to AAA Restoration Company for making this honor possible,” said Meaghan Cleary, 2012 Brooke Butler Memorial Foundation Scholarship recipient and incoming freshman at the University of Georgia.
